DAILY WHIG AND COURIER.

JOHN S. SAYWARD, Editor.

TUESDAY, MAY 7, 1844.

WHIG NOMINATIONS.

FOR PRESIDENT,

HENRY CLAY,

OF KENTUCKY.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,

THEODORE FRELINGHUYSEN,

OF NEW JERSEY.

Young Men's Whig National Convention of Ratification at Baltimore.

The second day of May 1844 must henceforth be a marked day in the calendar as memorable for the largest gathering of patriotic freemen in Council ever witnessed, and for union and enthusiasm and patriotic devotion, never surpassed. Every Congressional district throughout the length and breadth of our land was represented. Men from the remotest sections of the Union—many who live thousands of miles apart those who reside far 'towards the rising sun,' and those from the extreme West

—those who inhabit the regions of the North and those from the land 'where the trees ever blossom and the flowers ever shine' were together in united council, all hearts girding with true devotion to their country's good, to ratify the solemn doings of the Convention who had selected from the whole country the worthiest men to direct the public affairs. Hundreds of thousands were present. The men of the nation distinguished for their learning and patriotism were there. Ambrose Spencer, Daniel Webster, John J Crittenden, John M Clayton,

George Evans, J. T. Morehead, Judge Burnett

of Ohio, Judge Berrien, Thomas Ewing, and hundreds of others were assembled with the sovereign people,

"In the high names of truth and liberty."

While the thousands of delegates were every where in motion preparatory to forming a general procession, and the streets filled with men and the side walks windows and balconies with women and children the scene was dazzling to behold and seemed as though the nation had met to warm the hearts of all with true devotion.

At a quarter past eight o'clock in the morning the several delegates were counted to ascertain to which of them belonged the honor of bearing the Grand Prize Banner. The number of delegates from each State was as follows: Maine

65, New Hampshire 42, Massachusetts 365,

Rhode Island 120, Connecticut 91, New York

409, New Jersey 433, Pennsylvania 2,700,

Delaware 992, Virginia 1240, N. Carolina 599,

S. Carolina 17, Georgia 14, Vermont 155, Tennessee 94, Kentucky 93, Ohio 137, Louisiana

20; Indiana 30; Mississippi 4, Illinois 30; Alabama 31; Missouri 52; Michigan 33, Arkansas

11. The early hour at which the count was made does not show the whole number of delegates, as not half the number of men were upon the ground, but it was thought sufficiently near to cause the award to the Delaware State delegation on account of their preponderance of numbers.

The decorations were on a magnificent scale.

Several triumphal arches were erected which were forty two feet high and thirty-nine feet wide crossing the street. On the base of each pillar, as a firm foundation upon which the entire structure should rest, was inscribed "WHIG PRINCIPLES," and ascending at intervals, the words, "UNION—PLACED—BY—THE—PEOPLE—TO

ADMINISTRATION—UPON—THE—CONSTITUTION—

DISTRIBUTION OF THE PEOPLE—AND—NO

SPOILS—PRINCIP

Michigan.
From the extreme northern border of the Union, from the young, beautiful, and rich State of Michigan, there came a glorious band of Whigs. They carried in front the banner of the State, and these words below, expressive of the rich mines of wealth which her teeming soil can produce:
"Whose golden fields
Would suffice for the world's granary."
Arkansas.

And then followed the Delegates from Arkansas the twin sister of Michigan. They carried in front the banner of the State, and below it was this appeal:
"Sparta! Sparta: why in slumbers, Lethargic dost thou lie?
Awake! and join thy numbers
With Athens, young ally!"

Judge Berrien then read to the Convention the letter of Mr Clay accepting the nomination. Daniel Webster was loudly called for, and rose and delivered a speech a report of which from the New York Express may be found in our columns.

Mr T. Y. Walsh, of Maryland, then rose, and on behalf of the Convention of Ratification, offered resolutions approving, ratifying, and confirming the nomination, and pledging the Whigs of the Union, then present in council, to triumphantly elect it. This was literally NAILING THE COLORS TO THE MAST. Speeches were made by several gentlemen—the Banner awarded, and at this time, the weather, which had been lowering, settled to rain, and the Convention returned to the city in procession, and adjourned after the day having been to each one who participated in the proceedings THE HAPPIEST DAY OF HIS LIFE.

The foregoing has been condensed from a long and thrilling account in the Baltimore Patriot.

Reported for the Express.

The Speech of the Hon. Daniel Webster, before the Great Whig Convention at Baltimore.

The Hon JOHN M. CLAYTON on the platform, the PRESIDENT of the CONVENTION—Gentlemen—Let me introduce to you an old and distinguished friend, the able, and the eloquent Daniel Webster of Massachusetts.

Mr WEBSTER then came forward on the platform, and bowed before the innumerable multitude that filled the vast area below. The air rang with cheers, long and prolonged. Hundreds of banners were waved. The hats of the whole assembly were off, and were swung upward and around with an energy the hearty joy of the Whigs, in welcoming a long absent, but truly beloved friend. When the cheering had subsided, and silence was again restored.

Mr WEBSTER said,—I enjoy, gentlemen, quite an unexpected, but sincere pleasure in finding myself in the midst of this vast assembly of the Whigs of the United States. (Cheers, and a profound sensation.) I come among you for the single purpose of adding one more humble, but devoted Whig to that Assembly, (renewed cheers, with cries of "welcome," "welcome,") and to join in swelling these tones of public sentiment, which springing up from this multitude, and from the whole land, have found a voice and an echo in the proceedings of the Nominating Convention, (renewed and prolonged cheers, and shouts for Clay, and hurrahs for Webster.) The audience from its anxiety in regard to the feelings for his supposed rival, Mr Clay, broke out in tumultuous plaudits at this evidence of accord, and Union.

Gentlemen, we have assembled here to perform one of the most responsible and solemn duties that can devolve upon freemen, or upon the citizens of a great country in time of peace. We have assembled to take out from among us men as candidates for our highest offices in the gift of man; and to express opinions on grave matters of government declaratory of the course we mark out for a President and a Vice President of these United States. In a period of time marked with unusual interest, in the presence of a future that seems to be full of great events, we came here to select candidates, with whom we would trust our Government, and who for four years in the administration of that Government, can exercise the greatest influence over the interests, the happiness, and the honor of a whole country. (Sensation.)—Thus then I say, we came here to discharge a duty the most responsible and most solemn, a real People can have cast upon them in a time of peace. Gentlemen of this assembly have left their homes to come here, from every walk in life,—men of the highest patriotism, and the severest and most distinguished virtue,—men renowned in the Halls of Legislation, on the highest benches of judicature, ornaments of all professions, venerable in age and profound in learning; men too, from all the members of this great confederation of States; and after assembling in convention, they have submitted to you the results of their deliberation, to which they have come with a unanimity almost unparalleled. (Cheers.)—They have presented to our consideration, and to the consideration of the country a candidate for President, whose name is to form one, the sole, the single, the only rallying point of all good Whigs of the United States. (Tremendous and prolonged cheering.) I address you men who are here, and with a hope that you will thus induce others to ask you, how is it, by what means, under what auspices, you intend to bring about a successful election, and with a view to impress upon you the duty of using means, let me remind you that when our fathers began the struggle to achieve the independence of the country, they told the world as a pledge of their firmness, and as a presage of their intent, "Our cause is just," "Our Union is perfect." We too have a duty to perform less dangerous and less glorious than our fathers had, it is true. We are not born to create a country, to erect a constitution, to frame a government, to start it in motion, as to spread the light of liberty over the earth as they were, but we are born, and we must preserve, and protect, and transmit undiminished, unimpaired, untouched, the heritage they left us. (Cheers and cries of "we will," "we will.") In the discharge of our duties to our country, therefore, we must borrow not only their patriotism, and their devotion, but we must adopt their language, and let the cry go forth from the Gulf of Mexico to the Falls of St. Anthony,—from the rivers of the West to the shores of the ocean, with a tone of vigor, and energy, the world will hear—"OUR CAUSE IS JUST, OUR UNION IS PERFECT!" Tremendous cheering and exclamations in the crowds, as hats waved in the air, "Our cause is just, our Union is perfect!"

Gentlemen, (continued Mr Webster) the Convention has proposed HENRY CLAY, of Kentucky, for your suffrages. (Great cheering for Clay.) For thirty years and more, he has been prominent and eminent in its public service. He has served his country faithfully and honorably, both at home and abroad, (great attention here) This long career of public service, this eminence before the country marked him out as a man most fit to be trusted with the administration of the Government of the country, and to command the suffrages of his fellow countrymen. There were other indications of public sentiment, that he of all the rest was the man, and the only man upon whom they, whose principles were in unison with his, should now unite. And in these clear indications, I for one, with the truest sincerity, can say I heartily rejoice (cheering with great difficulty restrained)—rejoice that there is not a dissenting nor a doubtful voice to break the unanimity of the nomination. [Here was a tumultuous outbreak of cheers, and hurrahs for Clay and Webster, Webster and Clay, kept up for some minutes.]

It is true gentlemen, (Mr Webster continued, as silence was restored)—it is true that in a public life now not short, I have differed from Mr Clay in regard to matters pertaining to the practical administration of the Government. There have been occasions when we have taken different views of what it was our duty to do. Few men can live long together and see things alike. But, whenever we have differed, we have differed, I am sure on my part, as I believe on his, with equal conscientiousness and mutual respect. (Cheers.) I know of no great constitutional question on which we differ. I know of no leading interest in the country. Still less and what is often of more importance for our peace, if not our prosperity. Still less do I know of any different views entertained of our public relations between that distinguished leader of the Whig party and myself. If this were not so, under present circumstances, it would become me from the personal respect I feel for him, which is sincere and deep, from the high regard I have for his public worth and private character, to stand by him. Nay more, he is a Whig, and I too am a Whig, (suppressed cheers, and cries of hush, hush)—the selected man of the Whig party, of which I am a part and a parcel. (Loud cheering, that drowned the voice of the speaker. A voice from below cried out here, "yes, Daniel, you shall be the next President, you shall follow after," which seemed to embarrass the Speaker.) And with regard to the part I am to act, gentlemen, in this contest before us, there shall be no more doubt of my disposition than of my duty. (Loud, long, and reiterated cheering.)

The same Convention, gentlemen, has presented for the second office of the Government, another gentleman, not with the unanimity of the first selection, for it was not to be expected that any new name would at first command that universality of assent, which the name for the first office had. Several worthy and good men were before the Convention. Each had his friends. Among them all a selection has been made, in regard to which, I may say, a wiser and a better one could not have been made. A man of purer character, of soberer temperament, of more accomplished manners, firmer, more unflinching, more unbending, the Whig Party could not have found than Theodore Frelinghuysen. (Cheers.) I have long known him well. I have served with him much in public life, and such is his purity of life, and ease of manner, that he has a strong hold on the love, the affection, and personal attachment of all who know him. (Cheers.) The State of New Jersey, who has presented him as her son, needs no eulogium from us. Her character, her achievements, past and recent, her history, her revolutionary services, her sufferings, we all know. The patriotic dust of her dead on the soil of Princeton, Trenton and Monmouth, can never be forgotten. (Loud Cheering.) Some of us have heard from our fathers' lips, how in scenes of deepest gloom, her little army of Whigs supported and stayed the hand of Washington against the array of the enemy—how her plains and hills were traversed by American soldiers, tracking their path with blood from their wounded feet—(cheers)—how that whole population—all Whigs, administered all they had, their food, their raiment, and their blessings when all else was given. (Loud cheers.) And if an occasion has now come, rendering it proper, I am sure every person present will derive a gratification in remembering New Jersey (prolonged cheering)—in remembering a patriotic and gallant State so as to pay her a mark of respect in offering her distinguished son the second office of the Government. (Continued cheers for New Jersey and Frelinghuysen.)

Gentlemen, continued Mr Webster, the duty before us and other Whigs of the country is to restore that ascendancy of constitutional government which circumstances have taken away from us—to re-establish Whig principles and Whig measures—to re-affirm the sentiments acted upon in 1840, to do that work over again, and to do it now, God willing, so that it will hold.—(Spoken with emphasis and followed by tremendous cheers.)—The present circumstances of the country, its public prosperity, the general contentment and happiness of the People in their business employments, show that much good has been done by the revolution of 1840. Our duty now is to hold on to what is good, and to obtain as much more as we can—(a laugh)—to achieve as far forth as we can, the general prosperity of the country, and to establish on some fixed, some settled basis, the great interests of the People. Nothing is more ruinous to a country, gentlemen, than a policy always uncertain, ever vacillating. It will be our duty, I take it, to impress upon the legislatures of the country, durability, strength, something upon which the hard hand and willing hand of labor can rely,—something, too, that will tempt to labor, and make labor sure of what it earns—something that will stand: and thus by the creation and consummation of Whig measures and Whig principles, to carry out what we once before fairly won. (Cheers.)

There are two views I take of our position now. Mr Clay will be our next President, if we discharge our duty, and our whole duty in addressing, or arousing the people. And, if we do not, then Mr Van Buren will be, for I take it for granted that he is to be the opponent of Mr Clay. (Cries from below, "No, never Van Buren never can be President again.") You observe continued Mr Webster, I qualify by the remark—that if we desert our duty, if we abandon the defence of our principles and our candidate. Mr Clay we know emphatically. His general character, the general course of his measures, his policy, his manners, his habits are all pledges of what he will be. We shall understand him at least (great cheering) when he is right, we see in him what is right, and of wrong, in what his error consists. Of Mr Van Buren I would not speak with disrespect, nay I would speak with that respect due to him for the high offices he has held, and the high estimation in which he is held by a large portion of our countrymen—and I do not think I trespass upon decorum, when I say that he has not made that proficiency in the use of the English tongue—(a laugh)—he has not studied its shades and degrees of expression—he has not comprehended its phrases, positive, negative or equivocal—(renewed laughter)—as to enable my poor understanding always to be sure, or ever to be sure, that I know what he means when he holds intercourse with the public. (Great outbreak of laughter and cheers.) I hope it will not be deemed disrespectful in my suggesting that that distinguished gentleman might save himself a world of trouble, and the world, also you, a world of reading, (renewed laughter,) if he would adopt some short, settled, formula of answering questions—(continued laughing.) When two men meet in the street, or on the road, the first question put is—"how do you do?"—the answer is—"pretty well; much as usual, how are you?" If the question be in my country the answer is—"Oh, I don't know, I thank ye, pretty much as usual." (Continued laughing.)—Now it strikes me, that in the correspondence of Mr Van Buren, this Yankee phrase was adopted, it would be a great token phrase for him, for when new questions were put him he could answer, "Oh, I don't know, pretty well, I thank ye, pretty much as usual." (Cheering and loud outbreaks of laughter, mingled with hurrahs for some time prolonged.)

The Gazette yesterday contained a long article as a rejoinder to our reply to an editorial article in that paper stating that the circulation of the Gazette was not exceeded by any paper in the city. The Gazette can be wordy, can impute selfish motives, can quote scripture, can give advice, can indulge in base insinuations, can boast of its own sweet disposition, can do many things, to avoid the point at issue—but there it is silent. Its boast that the circulation of the Gazette is not exceeded by any paper in the city, is left untouched.—We supposed the editor of the Gazette labored under some mistake as to the number of papers issued by the several offices in the city and we therefore proposed a mode by which he might be sure of ascertaining the fact, so far, at least, as related to the Gazette and the Whig offices. We did not suppose that the editor of the Gazette wished to rely upon a false statement for the reputation of that paper. We did not suppose its success could be made to depend upon misrepresenting its neighbors. We confess, however, that the proof so far as can be drawn from the article of the Gazette yesterday, is strongly against our conclusions, and that contrary to all our expectations the editor of that paper had rather not come at the light lest his deeds be reproved. This shuffling is as wicked as it is contemptible. All we ask of the Gazette is that it tell the truth, especially when it undertakes to stick its nose into our affairs. We offered to help them arrive at the truth but this offer is scorned. They "take the responsibility." Awful responsibility too as we will prove, if the Gazette will make a true statement of its issues as we proposed. We pray the editor of the Gazette to allow no feeling of stubbornness or self interest to drag him down to that low moral point when he shall consider "a lie well stuck to as good as the truth."

The concluding paragraph of the Gazette is in keeping with its course, as it is there insinuated that we have made false statements. We demand of the editor of the Gazette a specification of the falsehoods to which he alludes.—We demand of him as an editor and a man and a professed christian. However lightly the Gazette may consider a charge reflecting upon its own veracity, we assure it we consider the charge against us a serious one, and if it will point out any false statement, we assure it we shall not take a round about course to get rid of the issue but meet it, and if we are in error correct it.—We demand the specification.

The Portland Advertiser states that the new Ericsson Steamer COM. FREEL has been tried, and the expectation of her proprietors in regard to her speed and manner of working, are more than realized. The Steamer Telegraph having been thoroughly repaired and repainted, and undergone some improvements in her model, is to run on the Kennebec route to connect with the Rail Road, until the Huntress, which is undergoing extensive repairs is ready.

The advertising of the letters in the Portland Post office has been taken from the Argus and given to the American.

WRIGHT'S
Indian Vegetable Pills.
The True Character of Counterfeiters and Sellers of Counterfeit Medicines.
NO Medicine has been introduced to the American Public, whose virtues have been more cheerfully and universally acknowledged by its vast popularity, and extensive circulation, than WRIGHT'S INDIAN VEGETABLE PILLS.

To descend upon their various virtues at this late season would be a work of supererogation, since few who peruse this article will be found unacquainted with the widely circulated proofs of the real excellence of the Medicine, to which many will be ready to add the testimonials of their own experience. But if further proof were needed of the value of the remedy it might be found in the fact that no Medicine in the market has been so shamelessly and repeatedly counterfeited. Ignorant, envious, avaricious, and unprincipled men, have in different places, manufactured a spurious pill, bearing a superficial resemblance to the true article, but composed either of impotent or deleterious ingredients, which they have sought to foist upon the public as the veritable

Indian Vegetable Pills.
These fraudulent Swindlers could never pass off their vile wares upon the public but for the connivance and assistance of self-styled respectable Druggists, who, for the sake of a little "filthy lucre," lend themselves to the monstrous and unhallowed system of imposture. The counterfeiter of a popular medicine is more criminal than a counterfeiter of current money. The injuries done by the latter sink to nothing in comparison with those inflicted upon society by the former. We might paint him wringing the mite from the hard hand of health, and receives instead the vile drug that protracts and aggravates disease, or to view it in its best aspect, suffers it to rage unchecked. How melancholy is the reflection that thousands may have been hurried to the grave by having a counterfeit substituted for the true Medicine; who but for the venal fraud might now be living in high health, the delight and hope of the social circle. All classes are interested in putting down these vile Counterfeiters.

Let the Stores where they are sold be marked and Shunned.

Let the virtuous indignation of the community administer to all concerned in these unfair practices a general and withering rebuke.

CAUTION:
The public will please observe that the genuine Medicine has the following wording on the sides of the boxes.

"WRIGHT'S INDIAN VEGETABLE PILLS."
—Indian Purgative—
OF THE NORTH AMERICAN COLLEGE OF HEALTH.

And also, around the border of a label will be found in small type, "Entered according to Act of Congress in the year 1840, by William Wright, in the Clerk's Office of the District Court of the Eastern District of Pennsylvania."

It will be further observed that the printed direction for using the Medicine, which accompanies each box, are also entered according to Act of Congress; and the same form will be found at the bottom of the first page.

The slightest attention to the above few particulars will serve to protect the purchaser from fraud, and save the lives of those who may otherwise be endangered by using a Counterfeit Medicine.

The public will also remember, that all those who sell the genuine Indian Vegetable Pills are provided with a certificate of Agency, signed by WILLIAM WRIGHT, Vice President Of the American College of Health.

and that Pedlars are never in any case allowed to sell the genuine article. All traveling Agents will be provided with a certificate of Agency as above described; and those who cannot show one will be known as base impostors.

The regularly appointed Agents can receive their supplies of the above popular pills, as heretofore, from the only Office and General Depot for the New England States

DEAFNESS.
DR. MCNAIR'S ACUSTIC OIL.

THOSE DEAF FROM INFANCY often receive in a most miraculous manner their hearing when they least expect it by some trifling accident or event, which shows them how easily they might have much sooner had their hearing, and saved themselves and their friends the pain of conversing in a loud tone, without pleasure, or of being neglected and shunned to avoid that distress which is felt mutually by the deaf person and his hearers. How sacred a duty, therefore, it is that we use all necessary means to remove such an affliction, and enjoy the social qualities implanted in our nature? This E. A. R. OIL has the effect so to relieve the tension, and bring into use the natural action of the parts, as to restore the hearing when lost or impaired. For sale by G. W. LADD, Stawd and w6m nov-23.

RHEUMATISM CURED.
DR. HEW'S Nerve and Bone Liniment and DR. HEW'S Elixir, is the only certain and effectual remedy for Rheumatism, Gout, Contracted Cords, &c. In the most severe cases the above application was never known to fail. We might multiply a volume of testimonials to these facts, but prefer to have persons call where the above may be had, and where they can see such proofs of its efficacy, that would convince the most incredulous.

For sale by G. W. LADD, A. P. GUILD, and A. YOUNG, Jr. & Co., formerly Holden's. Stawd and w6m nov-11.

CLEANLINESS OF THE HEAD AND HAIR.

STRANGE it is that persons who attend strictly to personal cleanliness, baths, &c., should neglect the Head—the Hair—the most essential, the most exposed—and the most beautiful, when properly cared for, of all the gifts of the Creator. Perfectly free may it be kept of dandruff or scurf, by the use of the BALM OF COLUMBIA. Ladies will you make your toilet without this article? I answer fearlessly no, if you have once tried and experienced its purifying effects—sweet perfume.

For sale by G. W. LADD, and A. P. GUILD, nov. 11. Stawd and w6m

SUPERFLUOUS HAIR.

HAIRY Excess on the upper lip of ladies, or hair low on the forehead or back of the neck, can, with the utmost safety and certainty, be removed by the Chinese Hair Eradicator, and that, too, without the least irritation to the most tender skin. There are, however, some scores of imitations on this only first and original article. It can be seen and tried before purchasing, and the proprietor will forfeit $20 to any one if it will not do it, provided it comes from 21 Cornhill street, which is the only place to obtain it genuine.

TO THE OLD AND YOUNG.
HOVEY'S RED HEADS AND GREY!

PHENOMENON IN CHEMISTRY.
EAST INDIA HAIR DYE.

Colors the Hair, and will not the Skin.
THIS Dye is in form of a powder, which in plain matter of fact may be applied to the hair over night, the first night turning the lightest RED or GREY HAIR to a dark brown, and by repeating a second or third night to a bright jet black. Any person may, therefore, with the least possible trouble, keep his hair any dark shade or perfect black; with a positive assurance that the powder, if applied to the skin, will not color it. By an occasional application, a person turning grey will never be known to have a grey hair. Directions complete with the article. There is no coloring in this statement, as one can easily test.

These facts are warranted by the gentleman who manufactures it, who is the celebrated Chemist, DR. COMSTOCK, author of Comstock's Chemistry, Philosophy, and other works, and School Books, well known and widely celebrated by the public.

For sale by G. W. LADD, A. P. GUILD, and A. YOUNG, Jr. & Co., formerly Holden's. nov-10. Stawd and w6m

TO FARMERS.

THE subscriber, Agent of the Waterville Iron Manufacturing Co. keeps constantly on hand, Ploughs of all sizes, made of the best WESTERN OAK and of the best improved models. It has been proved experimentally that for ease of draft, excellence of work, and great durability, these Ploughs stand unrivaled. For sale at the lowest factory prices.

COUGHS, COLDS, &c

COUGHS, COLDS, Spitting of Blood, Asthma, and all complaints of the chest, lungs and liver, will be cured by the Extract of Lungwort, when taken in this manner. This is asserted without fear of the least contradiction. Besides, it does not require the use of the poisonous balsams and candies, to induce invalids to use this great relief. One trial will convince the sceptical that its virtues are far above price. To be found only at G. W. LADD'S, corner of Smith's Block, W. of Market Place. nov-11. Stawd and w6m

DR. RAY'S BALSAM OF LIVERWORT.
PRICE REDUCED.
DR. TAYLOR'S Balsam of Liverwort, from 375 Bowery, New York—for the cure of Coughs, Colds, Catarrhs, Asthma, Soreness of the Chest, Pain in the side and Breast, raising of Blood, Liver complaint, Bronchitis, and all those affections of Throat and Lungs which are a source of so much suffering and unrest, so often terminate in Consumption—this remedy is highly and justly distinguished. It is purely vegetable, mild and gentle in its effects upon the system, and can be taken in the most delicate cases, with safety as well as utility. Physicians, aware of its medicinal properties, and witnessing its effects even in extreme and in some instances apparently almost hopeless cases, often prescribe it in their practice, both as a palliative and a remedy, and with the Medical Faculty generally it has met with great approbation.

CONSUMPTION.—The following remarks were taken from the last number of the Medical Magazine: "The surprising effect produced by the genuine Dr. Taylor's Balsam of Liverwort, made at 375 Bowery, in consumptive cases, cannot fail exciting a deep and thrilling interest throughout the world. We have so long considered this disease (consumption) incurable, that it is difficult to credit our senses when we see persons, evidently consumptive, restored to health. Yet it is a fact of daily occurrence."

Certificates from the highest and most respectable sources, or persons who have been either greatly relieved by it, or entirely recovered from affections of the Lungs and Liver, could be furnished in abundance, but we insert only the following:

CERTIFICATE.
Liver Complaint and General Debility. I was given up by two physicians, and told to prepare for death. I was so weak I could not raise my hand or my head. I was in this low state, when a friend sent me a bottle of Dr. Taylor's Balsam of Liverwort, from 375 Bowery, and before I had used the bottle, I was able to sit up in bed. By the further use I have completely regained my health.

GEO. WELLS, 35 John-st.
For a common cold and cough, this is one of the very best remedies ever discovered.

N. B. There is a spurious and counterfeit article afloat; therefore be careful to get the genuine which is from 375 Bowery, N. Y., and is for sale by G. W. LADD, Agent, Bangor. an. 5. 6md&w
